TC Communications: The only Gold Accredited Inmarsat Service Provider in Australia

Exhaustive competency requirements confirm TC's position as pre-eminent SATCOM provider in Australia

The recent awarding of Inmarsat Gold Accreditation to TC Communications has been built upon years of experience, research and development by this Australian owned and managed Satellite Communications company. With a stable of clients including local and international defence forces, Federal and State government departments, major Australian and international media organisations and blue chip clients within the Mining, Resource, and Construction industries - TC has built a reputation on providing a GOLD level of service across design, installation and support of remote communications systems. Inmarsat's Gold Accreditation confirms what this client base has known for years - that TC is the trusted name for satellite communications in the region.

The accreditation process was exhaustive and included competency requirements in Customer Service, Technical Support and Sales. Inmarsat has introduced this accreditation process so as to ultimately enhance end-user customer satisfaction and enable end-users to make a more informed choice in regards to Inmarsat service providers.

Diana Minglis, Marketing Manager of TC Communications comments "TC is very proud to have been named as the region's only Gold Service Provider and believe that the extra benefits and access to the Inmarsat network that this accreditation gives us will greatly benefit our clients in the provision of broadband connectivity, regardless of location".
